

Conference Workshop Announcement

Bridging the chasm of doom

As scientists we are often frustrated that the results of our research are not considered when water-related environmental issues are being discussed in public forums, in the media, and by policy-makers.

This is a workshop to identify the obstacles that collectively constitute a “Chasm of Doom”, where relevant research disappears instead of being taken up by those who could or should be using the knowledge. The outcome will be a strategy to overcome these obstacles and to encourage and promote effective water science communication.

Time and Place:

NZ HydroSoc	Queenstown	Monday 28 November	1-5pm
NZ FSS	Invercargill	Friday 9 December	10am -3pm

Workshop Leaders:

Jenny Webster-Brown
Helen Rutter
Graham Sevicke-Jones
Adrienne Henderson

*Waterways Centre for Freshwater Management
Aqualinc Research Ltd.
Environment Southland
Environment Southland*